

International Relocation and Tax Planning for High-Net-Worth Individuals

A Legal and Lifestyle Guide for Clients and Their Advisors

For high-net-worth individuals, international relocation is never just a change of address. International relocation decisions carry far-reaching legal, tax, immigration, estate, family and lifestyle consequences, and must be approached as strategic, disciplined planning exercises. This comprehensive resource responds to the need for informed, jurisdiction-specific guidance, clearly answering questions relating to taxation, political and legal environments, safety and quality of life. Proper planning can help avoid costly mistakes.

With contributions from preeminent international tax and private client lawyers, the book is designed to assist with comparison of 48 jurisdictions across Europe, the Americas, the Middle East and Asia. It highlights the key considerations that arise before, during and after relocation and covers immigration, family law and lifestyle priorities.

By addressing departure taxation, destination jurisdictions, strategic residence and citizenship planning, this book supports well-structured cross-border decision-making, enabling high-net-worth families to preserve and manage wealth, and plan for the future with confidence. It will be welcomed by lawyers, accountants, financial advisors, immigration consultants, family offices and individuals seeking a clear, practical understanding of considerations involved in international relocation and wealth structuring.

ISBN 978-94-035-3119-9

9 789403 531199

JACK BERNSTEIN

International Relocation and Tax
Planning for High-Net-Worth Individuals

 Wolters Kluwer

International Relocation and Tax Planning for High-Net-Worth Individuals

A Legal and Lifestyle Guide for Clients and Their Advisors

EDITED BY
JACK BERNSTEIN

AIRD & BERLIS LLP

 Wolters Kluwer